Meetings to point new direction

Review Editor

County wide round table meetings on education are wrapping up this week in the hopes of offering a new direction for the county school board.

Didsbury School Trustee Deborah Cousins said the meetings are being held to help the school board make some tough decisions on education services in light of provincial funding cutbacks

"We want to get the consensus from the county on the public opinion on education and education funding," Cousins said. "It's a way for us to get some real direction from administrators, teachers and parents.'

Cousins said the roundtables are broken up into discussion groups and workshops are held using a provincial workbook. The workshops focus on four areas; defining basic education, funding, standardized tests and the education delivery system.

The Didsbury meeting, held last Tuesday included all three schools in the area and attracted approximately 50 parents, teachers, administrators and students.

"I guess one of the most important points the parents agreed on was that the solutions certainly wouldn't be conventionally found," said Cousins. "That we need to look for unorthodox answers.

Cousins also said parents did not feel the need for the education system to return to the basic 3-R education

'It was quite the opposite," she said. "There was a strong concern for the children to experience a well-rounded education. Life preparation was also important to the parents. Even more so than employment prepara-

As for funding, Cousins said parents expressed some concerns over tax based equalization and supported the lobby efforts for government legislation to pool provincial education tax dollars.

"The parents feel it is unfair

Liquor store approved for Didsbury

Review Editor

The Alberta Liquor Control Board has given approval in principal to a Calgary man for the opening of a private liquor store in Didsbury.

Zdenek Kriz, who recently purchased the local ALCB store property for $110,000, was given approval to open a private retail liquor store last week

Kriz joins approximately 10 other private stores which have been given approval for business in the county. Two stores have been approved in Carstairs, one in Cremona, 5 in Olds and 2 in Sundre.

not mean store owners will necessarily be given the licence to sell liquor in Alberta. George Rodziewicz of the ALCB said the applications are still subject to municipal review before licences will be granted.

'Once that is approved, they still have to undergo an inspection of their premise to ensure the layout and use is as per the proposal, Rodziewicz said. "Then they can get the licence to sell liquor.

Kriz, who plans to open his private liquor store in the same building the provincial store was housed, said he hopes to open his doors early in December. Since the prothe private store can open, liquor buyers can likely expect a gap in liquor sales during the switch over.

While the local ALCB store in making plans to close it's doors, Rodziewicz said Didsbury customers will not be left without any liquor store service if Kriz's licence application does fall through.

"We are closing stores between now and Christmas," he said. "But only if we meet two criteria - if there has been a sale of the property and/or there will be a private re-

He said the ALCB does not plan to close any stores where communities will be left without service.

No further details were available on the retail store planned for Didsbury at press time.

Assault witness wanted

Olds RCMP are looking for a person or persons who witnessed the assault of a woman on Remembrance Day

Constable T. Butt of the Olds RCMP said they are looking for the couple who were driving a blue, four door Cutlass Supreme, who they believe witnessed the assault of a woman On Highway 27.

The woman had been walking on the west side of the highway at approximately 7:30 pm on November 11 when she was approached by two men in a pick up truck. They offered her a ride but when she refused she was pushed to the ground by one of the men. The assailants fled after spotting the lights of an oncoming car. The car slowed down to see if the girl was alright and then left the scene.

The RCMP are requesting that the witnesses come forward to provide any information about the incident. Any other witnesses to the assault are also asked to contact the RCMP at 556-3323 or Crimestoppers at 1-800-661-8477

Town council notes

The Rocky Bow BMW Riders have been given the go ahead by town council to hold their annual rally in the Rosebud Valley Campground.

Council decided to rent out the majority of the campground to the motorcycle enthusiasts at their last meeting

The group will take over all but 5 spots in the campground for the August 12 to 14th, 1994 weekend. Over 200 people are expected to visit Didsbury for the rally.

The request for a new radar system for the Didsbury RCMP has been passed on to the finance committee for consideration in the RCMP had requested the new radar system, a laser gun which can record speed of cars from direct and parallel angles, at council's last meeting.

Funds for purchase of the system would come from the town's capitol equipment replacement reserve.

The town has reached a new contract agreement with BJ Services for janitorial work in town buildings.

BJ Services of Didsbury will receive $375 bi-weekly to clean the town office and library, based on 45 hours of work every two weeks. The contract also hires the company for general spring and fall cleaning at $7.50 an hour

OPINIONS / EDITORIAL

No competition

Janice Harrington

Local wheat growers and other business people who rely on international trade to do business should be paying very close attention to the continuing saga of the North American Free Trade Agreement in the United States.

It is frightening to watch this historically isolationist country attempt to insinuate themselves on the international market while trying not to give up any monopoly rights for any of their own goods

The controversy over durum wheat imports from Canada is just one example where Canadians who try to do fair business with the U.S. will likely see themselves burned. This is a country who only wants international competition if it works to their advantage

For a working example of this, you only have to look at the import policy on Japanese autos. Americans couldn't compete, so instead they legislated a limit on the number of cars that could be imported.

Is this a country with whom we should feel secure entering into a free trade agreement?

Granted Canada needs to increase international trade, but by virtue of past example, it does not appear the U.S is truly interested in trading with us. Rather it would seem their interest is purely rapacious. Anytime the Americans feel they are losing the trade battle because they can't produce a product as cheaply or as well, the trade agreement will be held up in the legal system or changed through legislation pushed by powerful lobby groups

Those same lobby groups have plenty of money and excessive political power and could easily tie Canadian business down until their cash flow dried up. Their track record under the FTA shows how the Americans only seem to believe in free enterprise among themselves. External competition is deemed unfair. We certainly aren't hearing as much concern from American business over the Mexican half of the agreement, are we?

But while the Americans are taking their arguments to their government and forcing action from their representatives against freer trade with Canada, Canadian business people are strangely apathetic and silent on the issue. Some unions have spoken against free trade on a vague platform, but business people likely to be affected by the new agreement, such as farmers, are saying nothing. It is time they took up the issue and presented their concerns to the government rather than allowing the legislation to pass without comment.

The public opinion

by Ken Luck Didsbury Recreation Director

Role Modelling: Our Greatest Asset

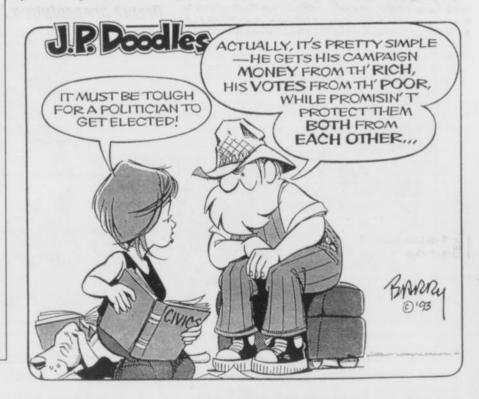

Recently while viewing a television commercial featuring National Basketball Association All-Star Charles Barkley, he promptly stated "He was no role model." Obviously he feels his stature as a well known and well paid athlete frees him from the responsibility of a role model to millions of young people who view his actions both on and off the basketball court. Unfortunately professional athletes like Charles Barkley, Jose Canseco, Ken Griffey Jr. and Barry Bonds have adopted the stand of "just wanting to do our thing -- if you like it great, if not, so against sexual abuse and what!" What a sad approach. How is it possible for any of these individuals to serve as anything less than a role model for a generation of youth that yearns for such sport greats of the past like Joe Dimaggio, Ted Williams or Hank Aarron.

To single out professional sport athletes' abdication of role model responsibilities would be unfair. After all we have heard said time and again "It starts in the home!"

How do we begin to create an environment for our children -- an environment where there is no need to discuss drinking and driving, drugs and safe sex, an environment where all kids wear helmets and protective gear as a part of sport, an environment where there is no need to street-smart our children or arm them other forms of violence against children and a world where all children feel good about themselves, eat well, are active and live in loving and nurturing homes.

It sounds like a story from years gone by. Yet the key to successful safeguarding of our children is inherent in every community, government and school programs - get to know your children; talk to them about their life, educate yourself on modern issues they confront, discuss problems with them and not at them and most of all practice what you preach. If you want the children in your life to build healthy lifestyle attitudes and behavior patterns, be a healthy role model. Remember you are your best asset in protecting and educating your child to protect him or herself.

Concern on NAFTA

Dear Editor:

Whether the North American FreeTrade Agreement goes through or not, Canadians must take some interest in what it will do to us.

First of all, it has been passed in Parliament by the Conservatives. We fired that group and we should fire any and all laws that they passed. I defy you to show me one Member of Parliament that has read the 1,000 pages of the act. How can you vote on anything you haven't read and especially if it is about the complete sovereignty of your nation and the control of the resources of that country? The Liberals in 1988 were against the free trade agreement with the U.S.A. but you don't hear a squeak from the flip-flop party now that they are in power. The same thing with N.A.F.T.A.

Our parents and grandparents worked six days a week from dawn to dusk to provide the finest life style and the most unique freedoms and prosperity for us. They were on a level playing field with the Americans and Mexicans and we prospered. Now that we have prospered, the multi-nationals and the establishment press are trying to throw this inheritance out and are saying "you can't fence Canada off from the rest of the world". Well if you have all the grain, trees, cattle, chickens, pigs, fish, minerals, oil, gas, water, electrical energy and all the young people coming out of university and technical school, why should you destroy this by shipping everything to another country including the young people, to bring your standard of living up? Stupidity or treason, take your choice because it's one or the other.

In Mexico you can and must buy the officials with what is called Mordida. Here we call it bribes. Recently, while in Spokane, on the T.V. there was a program which showed Mexican government officials and police authorities driving about a dozen luxury motor homes and vehicles. Then they showed the names and addresses of the couples in the U.S.A. that these vehicles had been stolen from. Under the free trade agreement, Mexican trucks will be able to move into Canada and now, when they load Canadian manufacturing on the trucks to take it to Mexico, they won't even have to pay for Canadian trucks but will have a fellow driving that earns a buck an hour. As our standard of living goes into competition with Mexico and our population drops, of course the Canadian government will make sure there are lots of foreigners coming across our borders to assist in the pillaging of our country. Or have you noticed yet?

Well there is a new boy on the block and many of them probably haven't sold their soles (sic) to the multi-national corporations and their name is Reform and if you write to your Member of Parliament we may save something of this great country for our children yet.

Answers on bus purchase

Dear Editor:

Regarding the column "Priorities" in the November 16, 1993 Didsbury Review, I am sorry the writer missed the priorities which prompted the purchase of the bus.

Regarding the cost, it was the lowest tendered price quote, with the most safety and comfort features, and had to be specially constructed to handle wheelchairs or bench seats, whichever we need for the health situation of the residents. The bus was purchased with discretionary funds which can only be used for capital purchases, not operating expenses.

The fact of bed closures was raised. Again, statistics on utilization show we now have the correct number of beds open to serve the needs of our district.

Our Mission Statement says clearly our purpose is to support the health of the community, namely the people of our district. The health of about 75 people in our region, extending to Olds, Sundre, Carstairs and Cremona can be assisted by a transportation vehicle to make the Day Support Program possible. Beyond this, is the focus of care for the caregiver; the spouses or family that are given a break. We find caregivers, as well as the person needing care, often end up in acute or long term care because of continual care demands. Then, we consider the 100 long term care residents for whom a trip out is a special occasion. To do this, special equipment is needed. If we can help to keep some people happily in their own home, and give others in long term care a better quality of life we feel the bus purchase is well worth the investment.

Regarding bad P.R. over wage rollbacks, our Board will not be rolling back wages, unless mandated by government, but we were instructed by government to present this option to the staff. Thanks Janice for raising the questions, hopefully I have given some of the answers.

S. Wayne Layden Board Chairman Mountain View Health Care Centre

Call for ALCB referendum

Dear Editor:

I am disgusted the way Ralph Klein has gone ahead with all these liquor outlets in our province of Alberta. I heard him say on an interview on the radio that he would give the people more outlets if they, the majority, wanted them. Well the truth is we never got a chance to say whether we did or not. I thought he would give us a vote on them but he never did. The M.L.A.'s decided all this themselves. I guess Ralph didn't want to take a chance like Brian Mulroney did in giving us a vote on the referendum. Brian insulted our intelligence. He found out we had more than he gave us credit for.

I'm too late to come forward with my complaining, but I wanted to voice my opinion here anyway. It's like shutting the barn door after the horse has gone out to pasture.

I am disappointed that more people haven't written in about these matters. Is it because they are in favor of all these outlets? Or is it that they don't want to rock the political boat or stand up and be counted? Is it because we are afraid the drunkards will retaliate if they know we oppose them? Does more liquor consumption mean more accidents? And, more accidents, higher insurance premiums?

We, the people, will pay the price whether we drink or not. For those who drink please don't drink and drive so this province of Alberta will be a safer place to live in.

Wallace E. Brower

Drama presentation landed

Dear Editor:

Iwould like to thank Ed Longwill and Deborah Reed for writing and presenting the play "Jennifer's Dream", based on the Elk's national winning essay by Jennifer Gingrich of Didsbury, to the Didsbury High School and Westglen School on Nov. 16th, 1993.

The cast, Katharine Dunlop, Nathan Snyder, Ffion Banfield, Terra Bergen, Chad Connelly and Sara Longwill, plus the back stage crew were superband really brought life to the essay.

The cast and their family have been invited to present the play on Dec. 9th, 1993 at a supper meeting of the Didsbury Elks at which time a video tape of the play will be presented to the Grand Exalted Ruler of Canada for use in other lodges throughout Canada.

Again a sincere thanks to everyone who volunteered their time to make this possible. It's people like you that make us proud to live in Didsbury.

Volunteer conference planned for Didsbury

by Janice Harrington Review Editor

A conference focusing on rural volunteers is being planned for Didsbury this spring

Didsbury Recreation Director Ken Luck, one of the organizers for the conference, said final details are being prepared right now to hold the one day event on April 28, 1994

The idea for the conference came from well known Didsbury volunteer Vena Crites who attended a conference for the Wild Rose Foundation in Vegreville 8 months ago.

Luck said Crites brought the idea to him and they started a committee involving a number of local agencies to organize the event.

Luck said the main focus of the conference will be on issues dealing specifically with rural volunteers. He said the event will feature programs, workshops and speakers discussing methods to increase voluntarism and volunteer satis-

"The barrier has got to come down sooner or later." Luck said. "The economy just doesn't allow us to establish our own little empires. We have to help each other.

To say voluntarism is an integral part of the community is an understatement. It is an essential part.

The conference will be held in the town's newly renovated multipurpose facility and will include lunch. The cost for the conference is $25. More information is available at the Recreation office at 335-8377.

"Not only will be get the chance to discuss a very important issue with this conference," Luck said. "We also get the chance to showcase our new facility and hopefully get more convention type business out here."

to have a tax across the board when some school boards are almost bankrupt and some are doing quite well because of the tax base they have in their jurisdiction," she said. "They feel that needs to be dealt with.'

Cousins said parents also felt community involvement in education shouldn't be just limited to tax contributions either. She said many felt the education delivery system should be changed to incorporate both business and community groups.

"I think everyone really realizes education needs to change to meet the needs of the student," Cousins said. "I was really refreshed by the parents' ability to envision how schools of the future will need to be, really different from what they had.

Cousins said the board will take the information gathered at all the roundtable meetings and use it in formulating a plan for the county education system. While no particular plans are in place now for cutting costs, the county is facing a 20 percent reduction in their provincial requisition.

RCMP report

Well, whether we like it or not, winter has now arrived! It's time to put the lawn mowers away, bring out the snow blowers and keep in mind Christmas is just around the corner. It's time to get those wish lists out and participate in the Christmas spirit. Although I do my Christmas shopping in the town of Didsbury at the local merchants, some people choose alternate methods of shopping. They prefer to invade your home and take things as they see fit to complete their Christmas lists.

The R.C.M.P. in Didsbury would like to offer a few helpful hints to assist you in getting through the winter and enjoying the Christmas season without becoming a victim of a residential break and enter.

- if you are fortunate enough to spend winter in a warm sunny spot, hire someone to shovel the walk.
- have someone check the house at random times night or day.
- if possible have someone stay at the residence.
- electric timers that turn on and off lights in your home when you are away are an inexpensive way to make your home look lived in.
- if you have an answering machine do not leave messages on it such as "I am in Arizona for 2 months, if you need to get in touch with me call 555-5555". To avoid this, prior to leaving, leave all family and close friends your phone number in case of emergency. No one else needs to know how long you are going to be away.
- let your neighbors know you are going away and ask them to report anything suspicious to the

Fiscal concerns heat up annexation celebration

by Elaine Wilson Review writer

Sub zero temperatures and Grey Cup semi-final game telecasts were blamed for a disappointing turnout at Sunday's Town of Olds/ Olds College annexation festivities.

Approximately 60 people attended the ceremony held to commemorate the recent annexation of Olds College's campus with the Town of Olds in conjunction with the college's 80th anniversary.

Harry Craig, college board member and Past President of the Olds College Alumni Association, presented a verbal trip back in time to when he attended the college as a young man. Craig noted that when he was a student at Olds College nearly a half century ago, room and board cost $27 per month and female students were not permitted to leave campus without a note from their parents. Smoking was restricted to one's dorm room (ladies were not permitted to smoke at all) and visits to drinking establishments were forbidden.

Times have changed, as Dr. Bob Bigsby, College President, jokingly attested in his opening remarks: "We have a very significant and direct relationship with the town: our sewer, our fire services and our Hay City Saloon.

Bigsby explained that the land annexed to the Town of Olds involves the campus proper while the farm land remains part of the County of Mountain View. The amalgamation was heralded as a logical move considering the college's impact on the town. Bigsby noted that Olds College augments the town's population by 20 per cent each fall when classes resume.

Speculation on how anticipated funding cut-backs would affect operations at Olds College was a dominant theme in many of the speakers' remarks.

"We all recognize these are not easy times," MLA Roy Brassard said before introducing Minister of Advanced Education Jack Adv. adding, "Idon't envy the ministers who are facing tough decisions."

Town of Olds Mayor Bob Armstrong offered examples of previous successful town/college collaborations and acknowledged the advantages Olds enjoys as a college town. He concluded his remarks with a presentation of a key to the town to Olds College Board of Governors Chairman Jim

Student and Support Services

Vice President Sharon Carry spoke on the history and the future of Olds College saying the college touches the lives of over 30,000 people every year with "a voice in 30 different countries". She noted 6000 students enrol in extension courses annually in addition to 1000 full time students.

Both Ady and Wild Rose MP Myron Thompson said education funding was a concern and a prior-

"I don't think we should be frightening people with what's ahead of us." Adv said when approached after the program's conclusion, "but I do believe we have to re-evaluate what we have done in light of where we can go in the future. We know that we have less resources now and we're going to have to improve our efficiency in our institutions. We're going to be looking to new technology to let it play it's part, recognizing that it's not an answer to everything. We're anxious to work with the federal government with our post secondary education system - they have a vested interest in it. It's early on in the present government's mandate and we haven't had an opportunity to sit down with them. But we understand that every level of government has a fiscal problem in Canada. We're all wrestling with it. I don't think we'd gain very much by working in different directions. A spirit of cooperation is the key."

Thompson agreed, saying, "The MP's from Alberta don't want to see anything to happen to post secondary education in a drastic way regarding finances. The Reform members are quite adamant on sustaining funding to post secondary education. It's a high priority. I don't know where the Liberals stand, but I personally am going to be very much involved with their committee on post secondary education. I want to know what they plan to do. I've learned that if you get people involved, people who are genuinely concerned with what happens to places like Olds College, and we work together, Canadians can accomplish anything."

Keys to the future

Olds Mayor Bob Armstrong presented the key to the Town of Olds to Olds College Board Chairman Jim Lore at the celebration on the annexation of college land last Sunday. The land will hopefully be used to build a joint project indoor swimming pool.

What's cooking?

Electric bread makers are gaining interest among consumers who are concerned about additives and preservatives and want to know what goes into the food they eat.

Young families and baby boomers are also attracted to bread machines. For many, homemade bread recalls a time when they were children and their mothers filled their home with the smell of fresh baked bread

Bread machines can be used to create a variety of flavoured breads. In addition, the dough cycle can be used with many recipes to make dough that can be formed into rolls, shaped for a pizza or made into other shapes and baked in a conventional oven.

Here's a healthy, tasty recipe for use in your bread machine.

Several football fans, on their way to the western semi-final in Calgary, were delayed for several hours while cleanup took place.

That portion of the highway was closed again Monday morning after another semi-trailer flat deck drove off the road about 5 miles south of the Carstairs overpass. There were no serious injuries in either incident.

RCMP are looking for the driver of the truck involved in the fatality accident near Olds or for witnesses who may know the identity of the driver or the trucking company. Constable

Don Oltrop said the driver left shortly after the accident and is perhaps unaware that he may have been hit.

PERSONALITIES

Scout pulls no punches

by Janice Harrington Review Editor

Despite spending 150 nights a year on the road, Dennis McIvor has as good or better a grasp of the local scene as the next person.

McIvor, chief western scout for the Buffalo Sabres, spends a lot of his time travelling western Canada and the northern U.S., but that doesn't stop him from knowing the players and the issues in his home Firm in his own views, McIvor is as likely to talk local politics as he is to talk hockey, the game that has kept him gainfully employed for the past 14 years.

"I like to keep up on things," McIvor said. "And I'm the kind of guy who isn't afraid to speak his mind."

And he does. McIvor, age 55, admits to irritating many people over the years, but refuses to compromise on his left of centre personal views or on his common sense approach to life.

'It sometimes gets me into trouble, but I've never really minded a little trouble," McIvor moved to Didsbury in 1976 while working as a firefighter for the City of Calgary. For him, a new home in Didsbury was a simple choice 'To my mind, Didsbury was probably the only place to live in central Alberta," he said. "At that time it had the lowest crime rate per capita than any other town it's size. And I liked the facilities.

Four years after moving here, he began his work with the Sabres, a job he attributes to knowing the right people.

"Like everyone, I played some and coached a lot, but I never played pro to a high degree," he said. "I used to bird dog on and off for the old western league when I had time to. The owner of the Calgary Wranglers was a friend of mine. I guess when Troy Murray was drafted in 1980 was when the job started. Scotty Bowman, the GM of the Sabres was upset he had been missed. He heard about me so he hired me and I worked part-time at

Part-time worked out to fulltime and now McIvor spends nearly half the year on the road between Winnipeg and Victoria scouting local talent in the tier 2 and college/ university league for the Buffalo

'I guess people think it's a really glamorous job, but the truth is anyone could do my job," he said. 'It doesn't take any great degreee of knowledge, you just have to be a good fan.

"At first it was exciting to travel but it begins to wear on you. You stay in hotels close to the rink so you don't get to see much. And its hard to stay healthy too. I like to eat right and stay fit but it's hard when you are staying in hotels.'

But the travelling may be over for McIvor next year. He is planning to at least semi-retire and may, as might be expected from his per-

"I'm really concerned about the poor in this province so I've been thinking about a food bank because of the direction this government is taking. I've seen things like 150 people lined up before 11 am at a soup kitchen in Portland, Oregon. If the right wing agenda is permitted to carry on, that's the way this country is going to go."

New executive takes on challenge to preserve the past

by Kathy Parsons, Special to the Review

Elections were recently held at the Annual Meeting of the Didsbury and District Historical Society with the following results: Terry Walls, President; Dorothy Eggins, Secretary: Sheila Fisher, Treasurer, Dale Weiss, Archivist.

A change of officers is not the only thing different at the Didsbury Museum. If you haven't visited lately you might be surprised at the changes. Volunteers have been busy over the past year refurbishing the building. "It's coming along nicely," says new President Terry Walls

As with most volunteer organizations these days, the new Executive's biggest challenge next year will be fundraising. "Money is short," Walls comments, "because presents, the new Executive is already planning a number of events to raise money. This month will see a focus on pin sales.

Pin sales have always gone well for the group in the past and they have changed the design this year with the idea of starting a whole collection. Each year a new edition will be cast with only 500 pins issued. The first pin of the collection will be the 1992 edition which features the unique brick building

The 1993 edition is in the shape of a bell and is representative of this summer's celebration of the placement of the original bell back into the bell tower

The last event of the year will be their Annual Christmas Supper which is planned for early December. The new year will be brought in with their annual membership drive and for just $5 you can join and support the preservation of our local heritage.

A number of other events are in the planning stages now for the new year and volunteers will definitely be busy splitting their time between fundraising and the continued refurbishing of the building.

"We are exploring the idea of incorporating an art centre into our building to better utilize space and to add a new dimension of activity to draw people to the facility.

explained Walls. "We've also got plans to really work on the upstairs next year and to expand our displays," he adds.

Dry trends persist despite improved moisture

Special to the Review

Dry trends persist in the northeast and Peace regions even though spring and summer rains fell there this year says Alberta Agriculture's soil moisture specialist.

"Fall stubble soil moisture hasn't changed much in those regions," said Al Howard of the conservation and development branch. "Only portions of southern and west central Alberta currently have good soil moisture reserves."

Soil moisture levels are dry or extremely dry in 66 percent of Alberta's agricultural areas – 55 percent falling in the low moisture category and 11 percent in the very low. Soils in this very low category have no significant moisture reserve and may, at best, have a shallow layer of surface moisture. Moisture reserves in low category soils can't sustain crop growth for more than a few days.

"These dry soil conditions are in nearly all of the Peace River region and most of the eastern half of Alberta," said Howard. "Pockets of extremely dry soils were found in all parts of the province, but the largest areas were in the Peace and east central regions. "While the Peace had heavy June rains, the precipitation didn't help soil moisture," he notes. High rainfall intensity, combined with low soil permeability and heavy crop water use worked against subsoil storage.

"In both areas, dry weather during the late summer and early fall didn't replenish reserves used in crop growth," he said.

Exceptions were in the south, where summer and fall precipitation was well above normal, and the west central region, where fall precipitation was near normal.

"There are also many positives in this fall's stubble soil moisture picture," said Howard. "Moisture conditions have shown slow, but steady, improvement from the exceptionally dry fall of 1990. The 1993 moisture levels are the best since 1989, but they only about average for the 12-year period since we started the fall survey."

Most areas west of Highway 2 have good to excellent reserves. The highest level of moisture reserves are near the foothills. Most cropland south of Highway 3 has good to excellent reserves. The largest areas are near the Cypress Hills and west of Highway 4.

Respectively, medium and high soil moisture levels can be found in 23 and 11 percent of the province's agricultural areas. These moisture levels are considered adequate to prevent moisture stress in cereal crops. As well, higher spring runoff is expected in these areas which is beneficial for ponds and dugouts.

Howard notes moisture levels can improve with average snow cover or early spring storms following ground thaw. "Spring storms can contribute large amounts of moisture to the soil reserve and are the best bet for turning conditions around in northern Alberta," he said.

The provincial fall soil moisture map is based on stubble field sampling between September 28 and October 30. Alberta Agriculture regional and district staff provided additional information on local variability and changes in moisture levels between the sampling dates and November 1.

The annual fall map is considered the final look at provincial moisture conditions before freezeup.

For more information or a complete fall stubble soil moisture report, contact Howard in Lethbridge at 381-5861.

West Didsbury 4-H Light Horse news

by Mackenzie Russell Special to the Review

The first West Didsbury 4-H Club meeting and registration was held October 18th at Melvin Hall. The second meeting was held on November 2nd.

The Light Horse Club has doubled in size since last year so our leader, Dixie Viney, will be very busy. Our club photographer is Karen Taylor and the club reporter is Mackenzie Russell.

At the November 2nd meeting our guest speaker, Mr. Johnson, gave an interesting talk about what to look for when purchasing a horse. Our first rides will be held November 19th and 26th at the Pavilion in Olds. Demonstrations on grooming and saddling will be done by a few of our senior club members.

New choice for NISA filling

Beginning farmers and farmers planning to expand their business can benefit from a new way to file their Net Income Stabilization Account (NISA) says an Alberta Agriculture specialist.

Producers can now choose the accrual method to file their NISA account, and still file their income tax on a cash basis," says Merle Good, a tax specialist with the farm business management branch in Olds.

"There is a catch," he adds.
"Once you switch, you must continue to report your income and expenses with the accrual method."

By choosing the accrual method, producers make their NISA deposit based on what they actually raised or grew in a year, rather than on what they sold," notes Good. "It's an appealing option for farmers who have lower cash receipts as they build their inventory values."

Good cautions producers should understand the difference between cash and accrual filing methods before they decide to change how they file their NISA account.

The cash method is commonly used to calculate farm income. It's a basic and simple method. Revenues actually received in the year are income. Deductions are expenses actually paid for during the year. Capital items such as machinery aren't included. Nor are inventory, accounts receivable and unpaid bills at the end of the fiscal year.

As well, changes in current inventory items such as livestock, crops and feeds are included in determining gross in-

In the accrual method, revenue is reported the year it is earned whether or not the farmer is paid. Expenses are deducted the year they are incurred whether or not they are paid. As well, changes in current inventory items such as livestock, crops and feeds are included in determining gross income.

If producers choose to change over to the accrual method, NISA gross margin triggers are also calculated on the accrual basis Good notes. As a result, year-end purchases of inventory won't change the farm's gross margin.

This is quite different from the cashbasis. Fuel, fertilizer and other inventory at year-end reduce taxable income and reduce the farm's gross margin.

At the same time, NISA's minimum income trigger remains based on the cash method. "This allows producers to withdraw from their NISA account if their net income from all sources, including that year's matchable deposit, is below $20,000 and the participant is married or supports dependants.

"The advantage for the farm manager is making NISA contributions and withdrawals based on the farm's profitability, rather than its cash flow," says Good.

He recommends farmers talk to their accountants before they change to the accrual method. "Your accountant can look at the pros and cons of choosing to file your NISA account a different way, especially since you must use this method until you close your NISA account," Good says.

NISA participants who choose to change to the accrual method must notify the NISA administration in writing.

For more information, contact Good at the farm business management branch in Olds at 556-4237.

Another important NISA program change gives farmers an opportunity to get back into NISA.

"Until now, a farmer who opted out of NISA couldn't get back into the program for three years," notes Janette McDonald Adam, provincial NISA co-ordinator. "Now farmers can get back in without the three-year penalty."

This ruling had implications for mixed farmers who joined NISA in its early years but dropped out because red meat sales weren't covered. Negotiations are now underway to include red meats in the NISA program.

Producers who want to rejoin NISA must also notify the NISA administration in writing by December 31, 1993. As well, notes McDonald Adam, all monies participants took out of NISA when they opted out must be returned to their re-opened account.

Farmers file against wheat board

The Alberta Barley Commission announced last week it has joined with 20 farmers from Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta and the Western Barley Growers Association in challenging the Canadian Wheat Board Act under the Charter of Rights and Freedoms. The Canadian Wheat Board Act requires that all wheat and barley which is sold for human consumption, or for export, must be sold through the Canadian Wheat Board. The Statement of Claim, which was filed today in the Federal Court of Canada, charges that the Act discriminates against farmers in the prairie region and contravenes the Charter.

What we object to is having the Canadian Wheat Board's single desk selling and pooling concepts forced on farmers who want no part of it" said Tim Harvie, chairman of the Commissions. "Farmers in the rest of Canada do not have to comply with this Act, so why should prairie farmers have to?"

Harvie said a farmer in Ontario or Quebec can produce as much barley as he wishes and market it wherever he chooses without selling it to the Canadian Wheat Board. "If an Alberta farmer did this, he would have committed a criminal offence and be subject to prosecution. In Canada, we value and protect the rights of individuals. We find it offensive and unacceptable to have prairie farmers subject to such oppressive and discriminating law," he added.

Harvie said it is the goal of the action to declare the wheat board ultra vires and of no effect.

"We are not opposed to the Wheat Board being available for those farmers who want to use it," said Harvie, "but poll after poll confirms that an overwhelming number of Alberta farmers don't want it forced on them," he said.

"We don't have confidence that politicians will address this matter unless they have to. We really hope that this action will bring the matter to a head and have the Act amended to accommodate these legitimate concerns."

The Alberta Barley Commission is a producer group which is funded and directed by Alberta barley farmers. The purpose of the Commission is to undertake research, market development and policy initiatives on behalf of barley producers in the province.

AWSA celebrates 10 years

Special to the Review

This past weekend, members of Alberta Women in Support of Agriculture returned to High River. the site of the first annual meeting and conference ten years ago, to celebrate their anniversary. Several of the founding members and past Directors attended and were recognized for their contributions. Many reminisced about the beginning of the organization. The original goals were to plan, design and implement an education program to encourage farm women to better understand the overall agriculture system and how it affects their individual situation. Secondly, to broaden the agricultural influence in the economic and political arena on all levels, from federal to local.

Over the years the membership has expanded from the High River area to encompass the whole province. The goals of the organization have expanded to include: 1. To take a stand on critical issues which affect farmers and to work toward effective solutions; 2. To present the real identity of Canadian farmers to urban consumers, politicians and the media; 3. To support a marketing system which makes quality food and fiber available to all on a reasonable cost basis, and at a fair profit to the farmer, 4. To develop a responsible and accountable membership that is willing to assume positions of influence in areas that affect agriculture.

In order to achieve these goals AWSA holds regular workshops on a variety of topics as well as holding their annual conference. AWSA has representation on the Alberta Farm Women's Network, the Classroom Agriculture Program and the Alberta Rural Child Care Project. AWSA Directors take every opportunity to meet with government officials and often contact them by letter. Newsletters are published six times a year to keep members informed on the organizations activities and agriculture issues. Resolutions passed at the annual meeting each year give the Directors direction for the

Over the course of the next year Directors will encourage the use of Ethanol as an octane enhancer as a renewable resource. AWSA advocates Value Added Production as an important component of a successful economy. Together with Women of Unifarm and Alberta Women's Institute, AWSA will research hearing loss on Alberta farms and will institute educational programs to combat this problem. Noxious Weeds and their control will be studied. AWSA feels there must be some effort made into keeping young farmers on the land. Recognition of Agricultural Producers is still a most important consideration.

The AWSA office is General Delivery, Nanton, ToL 1R0. Telephone number 646-2059. New members are always welcome.

Southwest Didsbury news

by Bessie Eckstrand Special to the Review

Sympathy of the Didsbury Carstairs areas go to Mrs. Jane Eckstrand and her daughter Sharon (Ron) Moore of Fort Lauderdale and son Lance (Margaret) Moore of Calgary as their husband and father passed away Sunday morning, Nov. 14, 1993 at Mountain View Health Care Center at the age of 82 yrs. and 11 months. Funeral services were held at Carstairs United Church on Thursday, Nov. 18th with Rev. Ken Jordan of Knox Church, Didsbury officiating.

Carl was born in Malaca, Minnesota, U.S.A., moved to southern Alberta in 1924 and to Carstairs in 1930 and worked for Heller Otto and other farmers in the area. In 1932 he purchased a truck and with the help of his brothers operated it for many years. He purchased a farm west of Carstairs.

He married Marion Wenstrom of Langdon in 1939 and raised two lovely daughters, Sharon and Gayle. Marion passed away in 1970 and daughter Gayle in March of

In 1973 Carl married Jane Klove of Phoenix, Arizona. For the past 20 years they travelled extensively in U.S.A. and Canada and were typical snowbirds, living the winters in Phoenix and summers in Canada. He will be sadly missed by family and friends

Sympathy of the area is extended to the Tuggle family, son Allan, daughter Wanda and wife and husband and families as Jay passed away Sunday, Nov. 7th in Mountain View Hospital Care Center, after a long battle with cancer. Funeral was held at the Evangelical Church with brother-in-law Rev. Sam Sherman of Calgary giving the eulogy and Rev. Pahl officiating. Burial was in the Didsbury Cemetery

Jay was born and raised in the west area and farmed for awhile, and worked for Shannon Construction. He and wife Lila spent many winters in Phoenix and enjoyed playing golf. He was predeceased by wife Lila in 1990. Jay was always an avid sportsman and loved to play ball in his earlier years.

Mr. George Bales of Carstairs (father of Edna Edwards) who resides in the Didsbury Health Care Centre, celebrated his 94th birthday on Sunday, Oct. 31st. Do hope he has recovered from his serious

Westcott W.I. celebrated their 40th anniversary by hosting a party on Tuesday, Nov. 9th at Westcott Hall, Approximately 50 W.I. members and friends from east and west Didsbury attended the celebration. President Edna Edwards extended a warm welcome to everyone and hoped, following the short program, everyone would enjoy the lunch and the anniversary (carrot) cake -(made and decorated by Sandy Whiteside). Jean Ford presented a most interesting and informative history of the W.I. from its inception in 1953. She closed by saying "What we get from each meeting, is what we put into it."

Congratulations and best wishes for many more happy years of working together.

Obituary

Maude Elizabeth (Wilson) Bales wasborn August 13, 1907 at Chaulk Butte, Meade County, South Dakota

When Maude was only a few years old she immigrated to Canada with her parents Frank and Sophia and brother Edward (Slim). The family resided at several places between Okotoks and Olds. Most of her schooling was taken at Olds. It was here she met Charles Bales when he was an Olds College student. After several years of courtship they were married June 9, 1930 at Mount Calvery Lutheran Church, Calgary. They resided on their farm southwest of Carstairs until they retired to Didsbury in September 1973.

Maude leaves to remember her in love, her son Frank and his wife Gathel of Carstairs, her daughters, Helen and her husband Ron Shingleton of Olds and Irene and her husband Bob Rowntree of Carstairs and 12 grandchildren and 20 great grandchildren.

She was predeceased by her husband Charles (1983), her mother (1940), her brother (1948), her fa-

and Entertainment Griz hit the skids

by Don E. Owchar Review writer

I know it's much too early to hit the panic button but the Olds Grizzlys are causing a few people some sleepless nights these days as they've gone on a mini tailspin, losing 3 or their last 4 games

The skid started on the 10th, as the Canucks snapped their 18 game winning streak, dumping the Griz. 4-3. Then on the 12th Fort Sask shaded the Griz 3-2. A 6-4 win at home over the Royals brightened things up a bit on the 16th, but the losing continued on the 18th, as the Canucks did it again, 3-2 in over-Canucks 4 - Griz 3... This is one GM Bob Clark says they didn't lose, they simply ran out of time. Kyle Edwards led the Calgary attack with a pair of first period goals, Christensen and Mendryk had the others in the second. John Erdman in the 2nd, Joe Murphy and Curtis Sheptak in the 3rd replied for the Griz.

Fort Sask 3 - Griz 2... No details available

Griz 6 - Royals 4... This looked like it put the Griz back on track but alas, it was only for one game. Curtis Sheptak led the attack with a pair of shorthanded goals, both in the first period and both on the same Calgary penalty! Joe Murphy also added a pair with singles from Miro Skovira and Josh Erdman. Sterling, Tobler, Zakustilo and Mulrooney replied for the Royals, who lost for the 4th time in their last 5 games.

Canucks 3 - Olds 2... This one vent to an overtime shootout that the Griz came out on the wrong end of. Defencemen Chad Sturrock and Jeramie Heistad scored for the Griz. while Rowan and Eisler replied for the Canucks, who then did the job in the shootout dropping the Griz record to 19-3.

Griz Notes...Former Griz star Darcy Dallas is playing a regular shift with the Northern Michigan Wildcats and according to his dad doesn't look out of place (but what did you expect Bill to say!). The Cats are 6-1 after splitting a 2 game series in Anchorage ... 2 more former AJHL players made their NHL debuts recently. Ed Ward scored a goal in his first game for Quebec and Len Barrie joined the Florida Panthers...Bill LaForge, who briefly coached the Vancouver Canucks, is now coaching the Bonnyville Pontiacs. The Grizs' next home game is the 26th against those Pontiacs.

On the mark

Didsbury Curling Club member Gary Dohla made the target last Sunday while taking part in a half day curling clinic put on by the club. Members and guests were invited to the clinic to learn more about the winter sport and how to improve play. This should be the last season for the club in their old rink facility. The new clubhouse, currently under construction on the north west end of the Memorial Complex, should be completed by the spring.

Don's Den

by Don E. Owchar Review writer

Hi and welcome to another edition of the Den. This week I'm feeling pretty good so I'll try and give you an easy trivia question. Only one golfer has won at least 20 major championships. Who is he?

Speaking on golf, in a roundabout way, the NHL officials are still on strike and so far no one has noticed. I'm not saying the replacements are doing as good a job, just that they're not doing a terrible one. So maybe the 58 regular guys should organize a golf tourney and decide to go back to work while they still have jobs.

Over to the Senior hockey wars where the Didsbury Ramblers recently knocked Millet from their unbeaten throne. A big win on Sunday the 14th moved the Ramblers into a first place tie with the Thunder and, from what I saw, these 2 should be neck and neck the rest of the way.

Looking at the football picture, the Division finals are now out of the way and I sure hope it's Calgary and Winnipeg in the Grey Cup. However, the way Edmonton's been playing lately, I wouldn't be surprised to see the Green and Gold in the big one.

Down south congrats are still going out to Miami coach Don Shula who recently became the NFL'sall-time leading winner. The Dolphins 19-14 win over Philly was his 325th victory, one more than George Halas. In off field news, Tim Tindale of the Western Mustangs won his second Hec Creighton Trophy as top Canadian university player and then immediately announced he'd like to play for the Stamps. Just what they need to go with Flutte's arm, a guy who averaged almost 10 yards a carry!

In baseball news, 2 Expos and 2 Jays won Gold Gloves for fielding excellence. Congrats to Marquis Grissom, Larry Walker, Robbie Alomar and Devon White. (I'll let you figure out their teams).

O.K...That just about wraps up my space for this week. Just one more note before I go. How about that guy who won $94,000 (yes 94 thousand) in Sports Select! Wow, almost makes me want to start trying my luck. Then again, the way I pick 'em, maybe not.

Trivia answer. None other than the Golden Bear, Jack Nicklaus with 20

Cremona minor hockey news

by Ryan Robertson, Special to the Review

The weekend of November 12th - 14th proved to be a very interesting and exciting hockey weekend here. The weekend started on Friday night when the Bantams hit the ice against ever-dangerous Canmore. Despite being finally downed 9-2. I felt the contest was much closer. Canmore scored three power play goals to insure victory. The play of Cremona goaltender Brad Newsome cannot go unnoticed, particularly in the second period where he made five key saves to keep it close. Goals by Lance McKinnon and Chad Young were good efforts. Good strong rushes by Russ Osborne provided spark

In Dynamite action on Saturday, the Dynamite 1 Team played Carstairs and dropped the contest 11-3. In goal for Cremona were Kyle Wig and Myles Marainiah, who split the duties and did very well. Scoring for the locals were Kelly Broadhurst with a pair and spark plug Jeremy Zinter added one. On Sunday the two Dynamites played each other with Dynamite 2 emerging victorious by a 9-6 count. Again the noise level of cheering fans nearly blew the lid off the place, but all went home happy.

Saturday saw our Novice B team, co-coached by Kevin Ryan and Randy Whitlow, place its unbeaten string on the line when they were home against Olds 4. The heart of this team seems limitless this season and despite trailing 1-0, they stormed back to take a lead of 2-1 after one. The game remained tight, the score was knotted at three after the second period. The third period and ultimately the game was decided on the sheer determination of Cremona as they pumped three unanswered goals in the final stage to capture a 6-3 decision. The good play of first year's Shawn Oldfield

The 1994 winter schedule for NCCP Theory and Technical coaches clinics is now available at the Recreation Office located in the Memorial Complex. Dates and locations for courses throughout the province are outlined in the schedule. The National Coaching Certification Program is an excellent method of obtaining valuable background knowledge on the skills of coaching. If coaching interests you, consider the NCCP program.

Speaking of coaching, the Coaching Association of Canada provides the following "Coaching Code of Ethics". I would like to take this opportunity to share them with you.

Integrity - The coach must act with integrity in performing all duties for the athletes, the sport, other members of the coaching profession, and the public.

Competence - The coach must strive to be well prepared and current in order that all duties in the respective discipline are fulfilled with competence.

Athlete's Interest - The coach must act in the best interest of the athlete's development as a whole person

Respect For The Rules - The coach must respect both the letter and the spirit of the rules that define and govern sport.

Respect To Officials - The coach must accept the role of officials in providing judgement to ensure that competitions are conducted fairly and according to the established rules.

Respect Toward Other Coaches
- The coach's conduct toward other coaches must be characterized by courtesy, good faith and respect.

Personal Conduct - The coach must maintain the highest standards of personal conduct and support the principles of fair play.

The monthly meeting of the Didsbury & District Recreation and Culture Board is slated for Tuesday, November 23. Items on this month's agenda includes, under correspondence, a letter from Dave Turnball of the Alberta Sport Council regarding the 1994 Alberta Winter Games which will take place in St. Albert from March 3-6, another letter from the Sport Council regarding invitations to bid on the 1996 Alberta Seniors Games, a memorandum from C.A.O. Mike Storey on the multi-purpose room rental policy, a letter from Pitch-In-Alberta regarding "Pitch-in Week '94", a letter from Alberta Community Development regarding the appointment of Chris McKenna from Red Deer as Didsbury's Community Development Officer and a letter from the Recreation Facility Personnel Association advising that Didsbury has been selected as site for a pool operators Level I course on September 29 and 30, 1994.

New business items include a letter addressed to the County of Mountain View regarding the current regional recreation agreement and minutes of the Rualize '94 planning committee meeting held on Monday, October 25. The Board's 1994 operating and capital budgets will also be presented for review and recommendation to the personnel and finance committee. Staff reports will also be provided by Rhonda Hunter Aquatics Supervisor and the Recreation Director.

The regular meeting of the Board is held on the 4th Tuesday of each month commencing at 7:30 p.m. in Council Chambers in the Town Office. All meetings are open to the general public. For more information please call the Recreation Board Office at 335-8377.

I would like to advise residents that the Didsbury Aquatic Centre will be closed from Monday, December 6 to Friday, December 17 for annual maintenance. The aquatic centre front desk will remain open during the day for program registration. The telephone number for the Aquatic Centre is 335.8653

With the Christmas and New Year holiday break less than a month away, patrons of the Memorial Complex Aquatic Centre and Arena are advised that holiday schedules for hours of operation during that period extending December 18 to January 2 inclusive will be posted in the vestibule of the complex. Take-home copies will also be available at both the swimming pool and recreation offices.

and Chase Kinch was welcomed. Good strong defence by Paul Tayan and goalie Kurtis Backstrom provided added strength. That's three in a row! Continued good luck! The team is managed by Tracey Kinch.

Finally this week, our Atom team, who struggled earlier were re-aligned to Atom C this week. Their first assignment since the juggle saw them travel to Morley on Sunday to face Cochrane 2. They never trailed, but were always aware that their opposition was in the game. On the strength of a natural hat-trick by Stacey Farquharson and Aaron Robertson's first goal this season, the locals won4-2. Creditis given to Cochrane goalie Chad Davidson who played very well.

"Mr. Boom" and his fellow opportunists

The "Great Calgary Land Boom" that took place before World War One was driven by a combination of bullish civic confidence, a housing shortage caused by increased immigration and frenzied speculation surrounding new railway lines. It was furthered by ready supplies of timber, sandstone and clay for brick-making. It exhibited many of the unsavory aspects that usually accompany unrestrained growth, but the period marked the change in Calgary from large town to genuine city. In fact, in the decade 1900-10, Calgary grew more than tenfold - from a population of 4,000 to over 40,000 (the 1911 census put the population at 43,704).

By 1908 real estate investment in Calgary was seen as being safer than money in the bank. It was E.H. Riley, who became a Liberal MLA for Gleichen in 1909, who bought what would become the Hillhurst subdivision in 1904 at $40 a lot. Six years later, he sold it at up to $1,200 per lot. As land fever grew, man began flipping land in weeks, days, even hours. Some were said to make profits of $1,000 or more on deals which left barely any time to fill out the necessary paperwork on the purchase before it was resold.

Real estate agents stirred the action by arranging financing so that anyone could get in on the game for as little as $1 a week. There were an estimated 2,000 agents operating in the city at this time - fully ten percent of the city's adult males.

Foreign buyers made ideal clients. Many "neighborhoods" they bought into - with names like Manitou Park, Balaclava and Pasadena - were far from downtown or right outside the city. Some were so remote they were never developed at all. Newspaperman Bob Edwards wrote of a farmer who approached an agent for a home in the city. The agent drove the farmer for miles, then pointed to a field and asked, "Wouldn't that be a lovely place for you and your wife to build your city home? Say, by the way, where is the farm you want to sell?"

"My farm?" asked the farmer. "Why, we passed it a couple of miles back, nearer Calgary.

The boom turned to outright frenzy when speculation began around 1910 over the coming branch lines of the Grand Trunk Pacific and the Canadian Northern Railway. The CPR also announced plans to build a major maintenance facility in Calgary. Where, speculators scrambled to guess, would the stations and shop buildings be located?

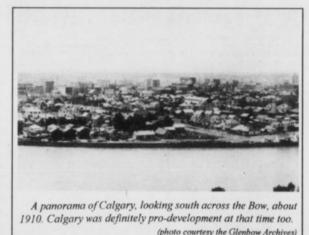

Fortunes were made and lost. and no speculator was more flamboyant than F.C. Lowes, the trader and developer who by the age of thirty would become Calgary's first millionaire and earn the nickname of "Mr. Boom"

An Ontario insurance agent and amateur boxer, Lowes came to Calgary in 1902 and switched to real estate in 1906. For him, too much was never enough. He employed 400 people in Calgary, owned four cars (at about $5,000 apiece, when there were only about a dozen cars in all Calgary), kept several dozen show-jumping horses and spread his financial tendrils to Edmonton, British Columbia, Washington state. New York City and London.

Lowes' trade was buoyed by the frenetic boosterism of the Board of Trade, the newspapers and the city council itself, which saw Calgary grow to forty square miles by 1912. In the period, something like 25 percent of all Calgary's labor force was engaged in the building trades. The Land Boom finally peaked and crashed in the decade of the 1910's, but not before it had carried Calgary to a level of economic activity that would not be matched until the 1950's. It was time when the city really awoke from its romantic dream of the frontier and of the cowboy life.

(This story is one of hundreds appearing in "Alberta in the Twentieth Century," the magnificent 11volume history of our province being produced, one volume a year, throughout the 1990s. You can see and purchase your copy of Volume 1, entitled "The Great West Before 1900," (292 pages with 279 great pictures) at your local Alberta Treasury Branch.)

Quiz: Do you care about your health?

Are you concerned with what goes on inside of your body? Do you fill it with salty and sugary snacks, or healthy, nutritious foods — or are you somewhere in the middle?

Find out exactly how pre-ous your body is to you:

1. My favorite place to eat is:

A. A resaurant with good, hearty food.
B. A fried chicken restaurant.
C. A fast food restaurant.
D. The candy store.

2. If someone gave you a pillowcase filled with candy, about how long would it you to finish it?

A. At the most, one or two months.

B. At the least, one month.
C. A few weeks.
D. Not very long at all.
3. Must you be forced to eat vegetables?
A. No.
B. Sometimes.
C. Yes.
4. If you were to make dinner one evening and dinner one evening and have whatever you wanted, what combination would you choose?

A. Chicken, string beans, macaroni and cheese, salad, and fruit for dessert.

B. A big hamburger, french fries, a salad and apple pie for dessert.

C. Pizza, onion rings, pota-to chips and candy bars for dessert.

D. Just dessert,
5. Do you feel guilty after you've eaten a lot of candy, chips, soda and other sweets
all at one time?

A. Yes. B. Sometimes.

6. My idea of a healthful snack is: A. Carrot and celery sticks, fruit salad.

B. Cheese and crackers, canut butter and jelly. C. Potato chips and dip. D. Two or three thick chocolate bars.

7. When you're really thirsty, what drink would you choose to quickly fill you up?
A. Juice.
B. Chocolate milk.
C. Powdered fruit punch.
D. Soda.

8. My favorite breakfast is:

A. Eggs, toast, hash rowns, fruit, and juice or

B. Cereal and juice.
C. A cereal with lots of sugar and coloring.
D. Whatever happens to be around, if anything at all.
9. When you don't like something on your plate, but you know it's good for your body, do you:
A. Force it down, because you know it's healthy for you.
B. Try to compromise with with your parents — eat half and leave the other half for the dog or garbage.

the dog or garbage.

C. Sit at the table until the food is cold, stale and inedible.

D. Pretend you are horribly

D. Pretend you are horribly sick.

10. Do you keep a constant supply of sweets stashed away for whenever you have a craving?

A. No.
B. Sometimes.
C. Yes.

Here's how to evaluate

All A's:
A totally health concious person you are! You certainly do care about what goes inside your body. Even if you don't like a certain food — if you know it's good for you — you will manage to get it down. You will be grateful for the sacrifices you make in the long run.

long run.
Some A's, but mostly or all B's:

Your health is important to you, but sometimes you will allow yourself a treat, and that is perfectly fine! You have a fairly well balanced diet, so continue to keep it in check.

Some A's and/or B's, but mostly C's and/or D's:
Watch it! You are slipping!
Eating healthy foods only occasionally isn't enough; it should be the sugary and salty treats that are eaten with salty treats that are eaten with caution. You are consuming some nutritious foods, so try to cut down on the junk!

All C's and/or D's:
You are a walking glazed doughnut! Hope you enjoy visits to the dentist and doctor, because you'll end up at both offices quite frequently if you don't improve your eating habits. You think it's fine now to stuff yourself with junk food, but if acne, extra weight and cavities ever visit your and cavities ever visit your body, they may never want to
